Endometriosis is a gynecological disease associated with a variety of symptoms including pelvic pain, deep dyspareunia, infertility and bowel and bladder dysfunction. It is characterized by the proliferation and invasion of endometrial tissue. Although the etiology of endometriosis remains to be determined, it is associated with an inflammatory microenvironment that appears to trigger the occurrence of ovarian endometriosis. A detailed understanding of the biology of endometrial cells is therefore crucial to the development of more effective therapeutic strategies. In this study, the motility and invasion of endometrial adenocarcinoma cells (AE-1 and AN3CA) were investigated. The Rho family of small GTPases are key signaling molecules involved in cell motility and invasion. We show here that the expression of RhoG, RhoE, Rac1 and Cdc42 are increased in endometriotic adenocarcinoma cells compared to benign endometrial cells. Both inhibition of RhoG and RhoE activity in endometrial adenocarcinoma cells and depletion of RhoE in stromal cells using a siRNA approach affect the motility and invasion of these cells in 648931e174

As soon as the ban is in place, that's when all of the specially trained hunt dogs, their handlers and the masses of people from throughout the county begin the four-day-a-week chaos of chasing their targets. So when I heard that some pigeon shooters were threatening to break the law in order to run off the dogs and hunt freely, I was a bit surprised, for in San Francisco, it seems that people just don't do that sort of thing. Although I suspect it isn't surprising that the hunters might be resistant to rules that might hurt the luxury hunting market, it seems a bit surprising that they'd be willing to break the law. But that's what I've learned from conversations with the hunters of San Francisco and from reading responses to an online survey from those who are opposed to the ban. First off, let's be clear that the problem isn't that the hunters, despite their raised eyebrows, aren't "really" upset about the dogs that follow them around. They're upset about the well-reputed hunting dogs who are unleashed and allowed to chase their targets. The hunt begins at 5:45 a.m. and continues for four hours. For three to five days a week, the animals aren't released until 8:45 a.m., when the fun (actually, the terror) of chasing a bird begins. People on both sides of the issue refer to the aggressiveness of the dogs as sometimes, "gouging," "nipping," or "choking." But they might as well just call it what it is: playing chicken with a bird. No one gets away unscathed. For one thing, the hunters (not, I should stress, all of them) will endure months of pain from cuts and bruises caused by their victims' sharp be
